'Marvels of Concrete.

Sky-scrapers, sidewalks, bridges, fence posts, dams, roofing tiles, telegraph poles, railroad ties, residences, piles, chimneys—these are a few of the uses to which concrete has been successfully put within the last few years, writes D. S. Harper in Technical World Magazine for May. In 1890 the total production of Prtland coment in the United States was 335,000 barrels, Last year over 30,000,000 barrels were produced—an inerease of nearly 10,000 per cent in fif-teen years. That marks the growth of the concrete industry in the same period --for cement is the essential element in

Net, lest modern constructing engineers take too much credit to themselves for the miracles they have ac-complished, it may be well to remind them that the uncient Romans, in 27 B. C., built of concrete the famous Pantheon, which is still one of the sights of the Imperial City, and the splendid dome of which is practically a solid concrete shell. Surely no building ma-terial could hope for a better demon-stration of its durability than that.

PREVENTS MARRIAGE?

Court Divorce Decision Has a Bearing on Mrs. Shaw.

New York, April 19.—The World yes-terday said that the marriage of Wal-dorf Astor, son of William Waldorf Astor, which is scheduled to take place this spring, will probably be made im-possible by the decision of the United States Supreme court, which is held to invalidate the divorces of many men and women prominent in society.

it is said, will invalidate Mrs. Shaw divorce from Robert Shaw of Boston. After their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Shaw lived in Boston, and the state of Mas-sachusetts became their domicile. After the separation Mrs. Shaw went to live at the home of her father, in Virginia, and there she obtained a divorce. At the time the suit was brought and the decree handed down, it is said, Mr. Shaw was, in Europe. Mr. Shaw married again after several years.

There is much speculation as to what steps the beautiful Mrs. Shaw will now take. There are those who are of the opinion that the marriage will not take place, or that, if it does, it will have to be postponed until new divorce proceedings are instituted in the state of Massachusetts by Mrs. Shaw.

THE CLEANER THAT MADE TROY LAUNDRIES FAMOUS

You Can Use Cold Water

There is no doubt that hot water is best for washing clothes, no matter what kind of soap or washing compound you use. But hot water is not always handy. So you naturally turn to something that will enable you to do the washing with cold water. If you could find something that would really cleanse the clothes without hot water, wouldn't you be delighted? Of course you would. Well, it is right at your door and is "The Cleaner that Made Troy Laundries Famous." For years Polk's Troy Laundry Washing Crystals which have become better known as have been used by the big manufacturers of Troy and vicinity, and it is now offered to you in convenient package form.

This "Cleaner" makes washing a very simple matter. Put your clothes to soak at night in a tub of cold water in which has been dissolved a small amount of SAVES THE RUB. In the morning rinse them out and soak them again for a few minutes in the same manner adding a little ordinary soap. This time if you have hot water handy, use it; otherwise use cold. Very simple is it not? Try it next time.
